Profile

I've been absolutely fascinated by computers since the first time I saw one as a kid. Through the years I have had the good fortune of being in professional positions that have allowed me to grow and learn regardless of my previous expertise. This has enabled me to pick up wildly divergent computer skills and make me a valuable asset to employers. I am a perfectionist who aspires to an ever greater level of efficiency in everything that I do while relishing the challenge of taking on projects that require me to expand my skills. I can learn quickly in a fast paced environment and have an uncanny ability to communicate complex technical concepts to people of any skill level.
